

Underground Thermal Labyrinth

Australia, Australia

The Australian Plant Bank in New South Wales uses an underground thermal labyrinth to capture and return the heat of the day or the cool of the night, preventing sharp temperature fluctuations and warming or cooling the building by up to 7.

Innovating thermal I

Natural cooling

Energy efficiency

Passive cooling

9 INDUSTRY, INNOVATION
AND INFRASTRUCTURE

11 SUSTAINABLE CITIES
AND COMMUNITIES

